READY NOW TO HEAR MESSAGE

Legislature Is Officially Opened This Noon,
And Officers Elected Without Friction.

HAS ADJOURNED UNTIL TOMORROW

Bancroft Speaker Of The House--Stout Leads The Senate
Forces--Committees Will Be Named
Soon.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
Madison, Wis., Jan. 13.—The Stephenson-Davidson conservative republicans are in the saddle. The administration forces organized both houses of the legislature this noon, ratifying the result of the republican senatorial and assembly elections last night. The organization is by no means factional, but characterized by a marked determination to do the business of the session with promptitude and dispatch, with fairness to all interests and courteous consideration of all demands.

While many important subjects of proposed legislation are to be dealt with, the administration proposes that the session shall be completed within four months and adjournment be reached not later than the middle of May.

Promptly at noon, the senate and assembly met, the senate in a large temporary room in the new west wing of the capitol, and the assembly in the beautiful assembly chamber. In order to be ready for the legislators, workmen labored all night to flush construction work and clear the rooms of debris, for it was only with the utmost efforts that the new west wing was prepared in time for occupancy, and it is still far from final completion.

A. R. Emerson, chief clerk in 1907, called the senate to order and a messenger from the secretary of state appeared with the credentials of the 17 newly elected senators. Organization was effected by the election of the following officers:

President pro tem—Senator J. H. Stout of Menomonie.

Chief Clerk—Frank E. Andrews of Bloomer.

Sergeant-at-Arms—Former Senator R. C. Falconer of Camp Douglas.

CARRY CHILDREN TO AND FROM SCHOOL

Shoeboggy Street Railway Company
Makes School Children
Happy.

Shoeboggy, Wis., Jan. 13.—Shoeboggy's small boys and girls need not freeze their ears any more going to and from school during zero and stormy weather. The Shoeboggy Light, Power and Railway company, through its manager, E. C. Gouzenbach, yesterday sent a letter to the superintendent of schools stating that children will hereafter be carried to and from school free of charge on city cars, providing they have a note from the principal of their school, stating that in the principal's opinion the child is unable to pay fare.

Tree Blocked Track.

Passengers on a Plymouth Interurban car were delayed, enroute to this city yesterday, by the falling of a huge tree, blocking the track for some time. Incidentally the passengers had the novel experience of assisting in removing the tree by cutting it in sections with axes cut saw.

All wires were torn down by the weight of the tree and a trolley pole broke from the strain, but the trolley wire remained intact.

WISCONSIN BOY IS GIVEN SPECIAL MEDAL

Shoots Bold Bad Bandit That Would Have Held Him
Up.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
Appleton, Wis., Jan. 13.—A. J. Smith of Spokane, Wash., formerly of Milwaukee and at one time an employee in one of the leading architects' offices in Milwaukee, Minn., has won possibly the first medal ever awarded in this country for gallantry or killing a bandit. The medal was presented by C. H. Brice of Spokane, Wash., formerly of Appleton and one of the leading paper mill architects in Wisconsin and Minnesota.

While returning from a party at Spokane several nights ago Mr. Smith and Harry Brice, son of C. H. Brice, both of whom are attached to the latter's office in Spokane, were on the Ninth avenue street car when two bandits entered and with marked profanity and violence in their hands, ordered the motorman, conductor and passengers to throw up their hands. Mr. Smith and Harry Brice were in the rear of the car, the former having his hand on his revolver, now having his hand on his outside coat pocket.

Smith obeyed the injunction of the bandits, but as he threw his hands up, he carried his revolver in one of them. In an instant he pulled the trigger; his aim was true, the bullet crashing through the brain of the bandit. The other of the two robbers, seeing that his pal had evidently been killed, took to his heels and escaped in the darkness.

A. S. Adams, the bandit who had been shot, was promptly removed to a Spokane hospital, where, two days he lay almost unresponsive to vitality, but finally succumbed to his injuries, the bullet having passed through the upper portion of his brain.

AMERICAN FORESTRY ASSOCIATION MEETS

Preservation of Forests and Other Natural Resources Are Topics of Interest.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
Washington, D. C., Jan. 13.—Of more than usual interest because of the present widespread agitation for the preservation of the forests and other natural resources of the country is the twenty-sixth meeting of the American Forestry Association, which convened at the New Willard Hotel today for a two days' session. The program provides for morning and afternoon sessions, when subjects of wide industrial interest will be discussed.

Secretary Wilson of the Department of Agriculture, the retiring president of the association, occupied the chair at the opening of the convention. One of the most important features of the initial session was the presentation of a synopsis of legislation and practical work necessary for the control of forest fires. This synopsis was presented by a committee of the Pennsylvania forest reserve commission; Alfred Gaskill, state forester of New Jersey; Prof. H. Chapman, of the Yale Forest School; J. S. Whipple, of the forest, fish and game commission of New York; and Dr. Schenck and W. T. Cox of the forestry service.

The subject of discussion at the session tomorrow morning will be "Forest and National Forests." An important address at this session will be on the government, the state and the individual forest conservation. Other discussions at this session will deal with the White Mountains and the Southern Appalachians. A committee report will be presented on principles in the equipment and management of state forests. The closing session tomorrow afternoon will be devoted to the consideration of forest education, and will be one of the most important sessions of the meeting.

Prominent among the speakers to be heard at the several sessions are Dr. C. A. Schenck of Baltimore, N. C. Senator Albert J. Beveridge of Indiana; Dr. Albert Shaw, editor of the Review of Reviews; Clifford Pinchot, chief of the National States forestry service; J. E. Russell of Louisiana, president of the National Rivers and Harbors Congress; Prof. S. H. Green of the University of Minnesota; Dr. Bailey Willis of the United States geological survey, and Prof. S. H. Graves of the Yale Forest School.

BREAK RECORDS FOR FARMERS' GATHERING

Manitowish Filled with Rural Residents
There for Farm
Institute.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)
Manitowish, Wis., Jan. 13.—Records of attendance at farmers' institutes in this county if not small cities of the state were broken today by presence of more than 1,000 farmers at Two Rivers, where a two days' meeting is being held. Three buildings are occupied for the meeting, one for the main meeting, one for a cooking school and one for an exhibit of farm products. Merchants have hung up $200 in prizes. L. E. Scott is in charge. Reduce Rates

Policy rates of the Manitowish Mutual Ins. Co. will be reduced as a result of amendments adopted by the annual meeting which abolished the advance assessment which was demanded of all policyholders. This assessment constituted a cancellation and a loss fund which is also abolished and in the future should the losses exceed the funds in hand, an assessment will be levied to meet the deficit. The report showed losses of $203.30 for the year and expenses of but $1620. The company has 800 policyholders, $18,500 in first mortgage loans and resources of $22,000. A number of amendments were adopted, one of which places rigid restrictions on the voting of proxies in meetings, requiring members to attend meetings or lose their vote.

Fire Started
Fire started from a small stove used to heat a poultry house destroyed the granaries on the farm of Henry Schmidt, five miles from the city yesterday, the loss being $1,000 or more. Neighbors, by dint of hard work, succeeded in containing the fire to the granary and poultry sheds though the large barn adjoins the burned buildings and were in danger all the time.

Form a League
Seven towns and villages will comprise the Manitowish-Culmen counties amateur baseball league formed here yesterday. Manitowish, Two Rivers, Reedsville, Brillion, Kewaunee, Valders and Chilton being given franchises. The league will probably represent business concerns of the villages named. A schedule will be arranged at a meeting in two weeks.

To Try Cases
Thirty of 42 cases on the January circuit court calendar will probably be tried at the term opened today. Judge Keweenaw announced that he would call an outside judge to hear the Boynton vs. Eggert case, an action for $2,500 against ex-Sheriff Fred Eggert in his capacity as a constable. The case will be transferred to Brown or Calumet counties.

The case is based on alleged failure of Eggert as sheriff to libel and secure a bond on the St. Portage and the Portage Transit Co. sued by Phillips of Green Bay for personal injuries. The term may last three weeks.

VOTE FOR SENATOR ON JANUARY 26

First Ballot to Elect Stephenson's Successor Will Be Held on That Date.

In accordance with the statutes the first vote for United States senator will be cast on Jan. 26. Aside from the talk that there will be an investigation of the methods of nomination of the primary law, the law in the primary law that on the second Tuesday after the meeting and organization of the legislature preceding the expiration of the term of an official as United States senator, the senate and assembly, by viva voce vote, must begin the proceedings for the election of a senator. On the next day the two houses must meet in joint assembly, when the journal of each house the preceding day shall be read and if anyone has received a majority of the votes cast he shall be declared elected United States senator.

In the time intervening between the convening of the legislature Wednesday, interesting developments are anticipated in legislative circles and the joint vote at noon Jan. 27. At the recent primaries United States Senator Bruce Stephenson of Manitowish was nominated by the republicans and Neal Brown and Waukegan by the democrats. In the senate are twenty-eight republicans and in the assembly eighty, making a total of 108 republicans in both bodies on a joint ballot. There are four democrats in the senate and seventeen in the assembly, a total of twenty-one. If the instructions of the primary will receive 108 votes; Brown, 21; and Jacob Rummel of Milwaukee, the socialist, 4.

CONVENTIONS OF VARIOUS KINDS

ARE BEING HELD IN CAPITALS AND LARGE CITIES.

SUBJECTS OF INTEREST

Tuberculosis in Animals, Agriculture and Rifle Practice Among Top-ics Discussed.
Trenton, N. J., Jan. 12.—Tuberculosis in animals is one of the leading topics slated for discussion at the thirty-eighth annual meeting of the New Jersey State Board of Agriculture. The meeting began at the State House today and will remain in session until Saturday.

Commission Men Meet.
Portland, Me., Jan. 12.—The annual convention of the National League of Commission Merchants met in this city today with an attendance of several hundred members from leading cities throughout the country. At the conclusion of the welcoming and responsive speeches routine business was taken up. Questions involving the highest welfare of the commission trade will be discussed by the convention, among the more important being that of how to best receive and distribute fresh food products.

The league claims the distinction of being the father of the interstate commerce law. It is still working on matters of railroad transportation and its principal efforts are now centered on securing a satisfactory bill of lading. The one agreed upon by the railroads, it is asserted, does not give sufficient attention to shipments of fruit and other perishables. It is to secure a bill of lading satisfactorily covering the latter products that the league will shape its course at the present convention.

Kansas Agriculturalists.
Topeka, Kan., Jan. 12.—Beginning this evening and continuing through the remainder of the week the Kansas State Board of Agriculture is to hold its thirty-eighth annual meeting in the Capitol building. The program is one of the most attractive ever prepared for a meeting of the board.

Governor W. R. Butler has promised to welcome the visitors this evening and the response will be by A. L. Spencer, president of the state board. The feature of the session will be an address on "Corn Growing Problems," by Prof. M. L. Bowman, of the Iowa State College.

At the sessions of Thursday and Friday the speakers will include such well-known experts on scientific agriculture as Prof. C. G. Hopkins of the University of Illinois, Prof. Albert Dickson of the Kansas Agricultural College, Prof. C. H. Eckles of the Missouri Agricultural College, and T. L. Bond of Illinois.

National Guard.
Washington, D. C., Jan. 12.—A series of meetings of interest in army and militia circles are scheduled to be held in the capital during the remainder of this week. The first on the list was the annual meeting today of the National Rifle Association. The national board for the promotion of rifle practice, of which Gen. Robert Shaw Oliver, the assistant secretary of war, is president, will hold a session tomorrow, and on the following day there will be a meeting of the national militia board.

Minnesota Poultry Show.
Minneapolis, Minn., Jan. 12.—The annual exhibition of the Minnesota State Poultry association opened today with a record-breaking display of fancy poultry and pet stock. A dozen states and several points in Canada are represented among the exhibitors. The annual cat show is being held in conjunction with the poultry show. Still another feature to attract attention to the exhibition will be the annual meeting tomorrow of the Northwestern branch of the American Poultry association.

Lumber Dealers.
Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 12.—The Retail Lumber Dealers' Association of Indiana is celebrating its twenty-fifth anniversary with the largest convention in the history of the organization. The convention opened at the Claypool Hotel today and the sessions will continue over Thursday and Friday. One of the most important questions on the agenda is the adoption of the "Code of Ethics," which was adopted by the American Lumber Trades Congress at Minneapolis, last June.

Texas Farmers.
Brownsville, Texas, Jan. 12.—Brownsville is filled to overflowing with visitors who have come to attend the annual meetings of the several state organizations devoted to agriculture, horticulture and kindred pursuits. The principal organizations represented at the round-up are the Texas State Horticultural Society, the Texas Nurserymen's association, the Texas Nut Growers' association. A large and representative attendance marked the opening of the several meetings today and all indications point to interesting and profitable sessions. The meetings will be continued and concluded tomorrow.

WATCH RETURNED IN MYSTERIOUS MANNER

Professor Rahr's Timepiece Sent to Him Through the Mail Today.

"Thus conscience does make cowards of us all."
Prof. L. P. Rahr of the high school faculty, from whom a thirty-dollar hunting-cass watch was stolen last Friday afternoon while the professor was absent from the room pending his part with a class in history in another part of the building, found the missing timepiece today bound up in a coarse yellow fragment of wrapping paper such as butchers and grocers use, it having arrived in his morning's mail.

The treasure—for so it may be regarded, Prof. Rahr placing perforce value upon it by reason of its having been the gift of a friend now dead—was in perfect condition after its adventure and the wrapper in which it was mailed had no tale to tell beyond a superscription that was scrawled in a handwriting patently, faked.

Special Meeting: There will be a special meeting of the Janesville Aurora No. 724 of P. O. E. on Thursday evening at seven-thirty.

PERSONAL MENTION.

Rollin Lewis is under the doctor's care with grippe and jaundice. E. F. Carpenter was in Madison yesterday on business. Mrs. C. B. Hostwick is confined to her home by illness. Mrs. Mary Doty of Park Place is unable to leave her room on account of illness, her condition being such that a trained nurse is in attendance. Brownson and their two-year-old daughter, Vera Jean Stunt, returned to Hampshire, Ill., this morning, having come to Janesville to attend the funeral of Cornelius Stunt. During their stay the three made their residence at the home of the decedent's son, L. A. Stunt, of Academy street.

Mrs. A. M. Glenn went to Milton this morning to install officers for the G. A. R. Women's Relief Corps. Later Mrs. Glenn will go to White-water in order to pay her daughter, Mrs. Roy Cary, a visit for a week. Mrs. A. D. Frink of Milton Junction returned to her home after visiting Mrs. R. L. Burdick on Cherry street.

R. L. Harvey of The Beloit News is in the city today attending the session of the county board.

Mrs. S. G. Bond returned to Milton Junction this morning after a visit to her sister on Franklin street. Ray G. Orant arrived this morning from Fontana, Wis., and is to be the guest here of L. A. Crosby, 639 Prairie avenue.

CURRENT ITEMS.

Come to Tonight: Owing to a mistake the installation of the officers of Harry L. Gifford Camp, U. S. W. V., was announced as taking place last night, when it is tonight, January 13th. An excellent programme has been provided and all ex-soldiers, and sailors are invited, also the local G. A. R. and Relief Corps. Major E. S. Evans, of Racine, department commander, will be present.

Important Notice: Thursday evening Ben Hur Court No. 1 will decide about moving or surrendering their charter, will elect officers for year, also other very important business will be acted on. Any members interested please be prompt at 7:30. C. H. Nott, clerk.

Escaped from Quaker: Word has been received from Sletty of the safety of Walter Kennedy of Worcester, Mass., an intimate friend of Dr. and Mrs. St. John. It was feared at first that Mr. Kennedy had been among the victims of the quake. Sent to Jail: Tom Doherty, a local character, was arrested this morning at the C. & N. W. passenger station and charged with being drunk and disorderly. He had locked himself in the toilet room and was apparently getting ready to retire when arrested. He was sentenced to 5 days in jail and fined $4.00 and costs (total $5.10), with the alternative of spending five additional days. Jack Burns, a hobo, was given ten days for begging on the streets.

OBITUARY.

Thomas P. McGrane.
The funeral of the late Thomas P. McGrane was held Monday at ten o'clock from St. Joseph's church, Edgerton, Wis. The Rev. J. E. Harlan officiated at solemn high mass.

Mother Superior Receives Check for Hundred Dollars from Local Order.

Sister Mary Ignatius, Mother Superior of St. Joseph's Convent, has received the check for one hundred dollars donated by the Janesville Association of Eagles and is delighted with the gift and would be glad to see other orders in the city make similar contributions for the benefit of the hospital and of their own members. The Mother Superior said this morning: "The Eagles of the Janesville avary have taken wing and soared aloft by putting into effect a good thought which came and nestled in their avary clothed in all the wisdom of the old year. This thought is a twofold benefit, going good to the members of the order of Eagles and also benefit the only hospital at Janesville."

"At a recent meeting it was voted that the order would pay to the hospital management the sum of $100 per annum for the care of its sick members, thus making provision for sick or injured Eagles. If this sum be not used or needed for the purpose given, it will be donated to the hospital. It is hoped that all the societies of the flower city will follow the good example of the Eagles."

"The amount is small for an organization, but the aid it will give its members and the financial help it will give to the Sisters just now will be highly appreciated, as the past year has been a hard one to collect money; therefore, they make this appeal to the societies and offer their sincere thanks to the noble order of Eagles."

ASA ANDERSON WAS BOARD'S SELECTION

Janesville Man Selected to Fill Office Made Vacant by Kenyon's Resignation.

Asa P. Anderson was elected by the county board to be poor commissioner for the northern portion of the county to succeed Stephen H. Kenyon who has held the office for the past twenty-five years. His election came as a result of a caucus of the five Janesville supervisors this noon, at which his name with other applicants was discussed and by a vote of the caucus his name was presented to the county board as Janesville's choice. When this announcement was made in the board meeting Supervisor Moore placed in nomination former sheriff Ira Fisher. The total number of votes cast was 28 of which Anderson received 17, Fisher 15, six scattering. The second ballot resulted in Anderson's election to fill the unexpired term of Kenyon. The vote was Anderson 22, Fisher 14, E. H. Holmstrom 2.

MEET BELoit FIVE SATURDAY EVENING

High School Basketball Team Hopes to Put up Good Argument with Local City Players.

Janesville High School basketball team, which belongs to no league and plays out of pure love for the sport, will be pitted against Beloit High School Five on Saturday evening in the local gymnasium. It is expected that Capt. Frank Robertson, who is remembered for many brave deeds done in the name of the local team, will be sufficiently recovered from his injuries (which he sustained a few weeks ago in a game at the Y. M. C. A.) to put in an appearance among the spectators.

Elbridge Field, another leading player in the local five, is also unable to play Saturday evening. Bedeviled with pneumonia, he has been confined to his home for some weeks.

EXPLAINED CASE; STICKNEY CHILD

SAYS THAT MRS. BURGESS HAD LEGAL RIGHT.

CHICAGO ATTORNEY WRITES

Tells of the Legal Aspect of the Case Which Interested Local People.

After nearly two weeks of mystery surrounding the mysterious disappearance of Eva May Stickney, the little Chicago girl who was taken by her aunt, Mrs. Burgess, back to Chicago, against the wishes of another aunt, Mrs. Peters, "disappeared" was the term used in describing her disappearance. The following letter relative to the matter was received this morning from William H. Monk, a Chicago attorney, with offices in the Stock Exchange block. Mr. Monk says: Editor of the Janesville Daily Gazette, Janesville, Wis.

Dear Sir: The issue of your paper of the 30th inst., just came to hand, in which I find an account regarding Eva May Stickney. The whole article is based upon information that is not in accordance with the facts. The facts are that since the death of the father and mother of Eva May Stickney and her brother Harold, these two small children have been under the care and supervision of Z. H. Winslow, who was appointed guardian by the court of their persons. There being no other persons apparently interested in them, and Mr. Winslow being an old army comrade of the father of these two children, was appointed by the father during his life time, to look after these children, Mr. Stickney seeming to have great confidence in Mr. Winslow, who is not a huncher, as alleged in your article, but a large provision and grocery dealer of this city—a man of means, a man of integrity, and a man with sufficient heart to take charge of the two little children of his dead friend, to see to their education, their maintenance and their support.

Unfortunately for these two children, Mr. Winslow died, and pending the placing of these children permanently in the hands of another guardian who might be as kind to them as Mr. Winslow had been, it seems that Mrs. Peters of Janesville came to Chicago and ascertaining that it would be impossible for her to obtain letters of guardianship for these children being a non-resident, she procured a Mrs. Burgess, a resident of Chicago, to apply to the probate court for letters of guardianship, which were granted and which are still in full force. My information gained from Mrs. Burgess is that after her appointment she was induced by Mrs. Peters and Mrs. Peters' lawyer, to allow the children to pay a visit to Mrs. Peters at Janesville, and it seems from the article in your paper, that Mrs. Peters proceeded to obtain letters of guardianship in Wisconsin for these children. What representations there were there made to the court I do not know, but Mrs. Burgess is still the acting guardian of these two children in Illinois, as now is substantiated by any other person. And in this way the children got to Wisconsin.

Your article is again in error by stating that Atty. Dehmling, representing the Trust company, drew up the papers of guardianship. I have personally represented the Trust company in that matter, and in so far as I know, I am still its representative in the matter of representing it in the estate matter of these children. In view of the fact, the probate court of Cook county who issued legal letters of guardianship to Mrs. Burgess will hold her chargeable for these children, would seem to be quite sufficient authority for Mrs. Burgess to make every reasonable effort to have them within the jurisdiction of the court of Illinois, and it would seem most probable that the court at Janesville, if letters of guardianship have been issued to Mrs. Peters, would not have done so had the facts been made known to that court.

I write this simply to get right the facts, the article in your paper being most misleading, but probably founded upon statements made by some person to your representative.

Yours very respectfully,
WILLIAM H. MONK.

Home Course In Modern Agriculture

VI.—How Plants Are Propagated

By C. V. GREGORY,
Agricultural Division, Iowa State College

Copyright, 1929, by American Press Association

IN order to continue to raise crops from year to year we must propagate the plants in some way. There are two principal ways of doing this—by seeds and by divisions of the plant itself. The most important of these is by seeds, as it is in this way that most of the ordinary farm crops are multiplied.

In order to understand this process we must first learn how the seeds are formed. The insect of the corn is the male flower and the silk the female. Some plants, such as certain varieties of strawberries, have only female flowers and must be planted in alternate rows with varieties which have both kinds of blossoms. In other plants the male and female flowers are combined in one. This is the case with the apple and many other fruits. In the apple the stamens, or male parts, grow in a ring around the pistil, or female part, which is in the center of the flower. The top of a stamen, which is expanded, is called the anther. This contains a yellow dust, the pollen.

The upper portion of the pistil is called the stigma. From it a tube called the style leads downward to the ovary. This ovary contains one or more egg shaped cells called ovules. Each of these ovules is capable of developing into a seed if fertilized with a pollen grain. When a grain of pollen alights on a ripe stigma it is held by a sticky substance secreted there. It soon germinates and sends a long, threadlike projection down through the style to the ovary. This slender projection enters the ovary, and the resultant union of the male and female elements causes a seed to develop. One pollen grain is required for each ovule, and each ovule develops into a separate seed. There are many thousand pollen grains produced by each stamen, and as there are several stamens for each pistil you will see that a great excess of pollen is produced. This is one of nature's methods of making reproduction more certain.

In flowers like the apple the pollen may sometimes fall directly on the stigma in the same flower. More often, however, the stamens and pistils ripen at different times. The object of this is to prevent self fertilization, which, if long continued, will weaken the vitality of the coming generations. Cross pollination—that is, the fertilization of the ovule of one flower by the pollen from another plant—unites the strength of both parents and produces larger, harder seed.

This has been proved by many experiments. If the stamens are pulled from a row of corn before they have time to shed their pollen, the silks must necessarily be fertilized by pollen from other stalks. The cross pollination will cause the detached rows to produce heavier and larger ears. If this process is continued from year to year the yielding power of that particular strain will be considerably increased.

In such plants as corn the wind carries the pollen for rods in every direction. The air in the cornfield is so filled with the yellow dust that there is seldom any danger that the silks will fail to catch more than plenty to fertilize each of the many ovules that are to form the future kernels.

Some plants, however, are not so fortunate in this respect. The pollen of fruit trees is carried to some extent by the wind, but not nearly so much as that of corn. In such plants as

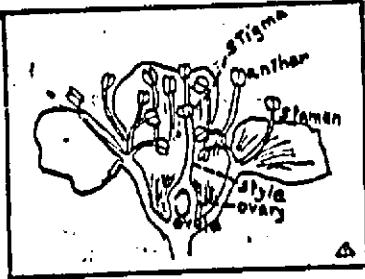

FIG. XII.—SECTION OF CHERRY BLOSSOM SHOWING MALE AND FEMALE PARTS. The stamens are at the bottom of a slender tube, from which they cannot escape unaided. Plants of this nature are dependent on insects to transfer pollen from one flower to another. In order to attract these insects the flowers secrete a sweet nectar, which collects in the bottom of the tubes of which the flowers are composed.

Ants, flies, butterflies and bees are very fond of this nectar and in collecting it carry the pollen of one flower to the stigma of another. Bees are most important in doing this work because they gather so much more of the nectar than do the other insects. They often carry home some of the pollen, too, which can be seen sticking in yellow balls to their hind legs, but enough is always brushed off to fertilize the flowers which they visit. The blossoms of red clover are so large that the short-tongued ordinary honeybees cannot reach to the bottom. It is upon the larger bumblebees that this crop depends for its ability to produce seed.

Indeed, it is so entirely dependent upon them that the crop of clover seed is in direct proportion to the number of bumblebees in the neighborhood. It is anything but pleasant to run into a big nest of bumblebees with a mowing rake, but before you build a fire over them stop to think whether you want a crop of clover seed or not. Some beekeepers are developing strains of honeybees with exceptionally long tongues. Some of these are able to obtain pollen from "second" crop red clover, which has smaller blossoms than the first crop. When these strains of bees become a little better developed and more widely distributed the usefulness of the bumblebees will be over. In the case of small grain crops fertilization is impossible, since the flower is inside of a closed hull. Two varieties of wheat may be planted in adjoining fields or even in the same field without the slightest danger of mixing. Varieties of corn, on the other hand, often mix when as much as forty rods apart.

The selection of seed corn will be taken up in the next article. The best method of selecting small grain is by means of the thinning mill. By running through three or four times as much seed as is needed all the small grains may be sifted out and the light ones blown over, leaving only the heaviest, strongest ones for planting.

Grain that is intended for seed should be stored carefully in order that it may go through the winter unharmed. The chief enemies of stored seed are moisture, insects and rats and mice. The seed should be dry when stored and kept where moisture cannot gain access to it. Dry seed will stand almost any amount of freezing without injury.

There are a number of insects that damage seed grain by burrowing into the germ. If the seed room is tight, they may be killed by fumigating with carbon disulphide used at the rate of a pound to each thousand cubic feet of space. Place this in an open dish on top of the seed, close the room as tightly as possible, and in a few hours the insects will be exterminated. Care should be taken not to go near the room with a light, as the gas is explosive. This same treatment is also fatal to rats and mice, unless they have some way of escaping from the room. If possible the seed room should be so well built that these pests cannot get into it.

The second method of plant propagation is by division—that is, by planting parts of the plant itself. Potatoes are propagated in this way almost entirely. If small willow and poplar branches are stuck into the ground, they will grow into trees. Apple and other fruit trees are propagated either by grafting or budding. Apple trees may be raised from seed, but the fruit of seedling trees is usually worthless. By taking a part of the tree and growing another from it, it will, of course, bear the same kind of fruit. Grafting consists of joining pieces of small branches or scions of the tree which is to be propagated to pieces of roots or stocks. The roots of yearling seedlings are used for stocks. The scions, which should be about the size of a lead pencil, should be cut in the fall and packed in sand. The grafting can be done at any time during the winter. All that is necessary is to cut the lower end of the scion and the upper end of the stock at an angle, as shown in Fig. 13. These are then carefully fitted together and tied with a fine common string. The essential point is to be sure to have the cambium layer of the scion join that of the stock. This cambium layer is the thin, light brown portion between the bark and the wood. It is the point where growth takes place.

The completed graft, which should be eight to ten inches long, is again packed in sand. In the spring the grafts are planted in a row in the garden and left until they are two or three years old, when they may be transplanted to their permanent place in the orchard.

TILLMAN HIT AGAIN

Attorney General Bonaparte Answers His Speech.

STATEMENTS ARE RIDDLED

Suit for Recovery of Oregon Land Was Begun Promptly—Different Story of Senator's Interview with the Cabinet Officer.

Washington, Jan. 13.—Senator Ben Tillman got another hard rap last night when Attorney General Bonaparte issued a long statement in reply to Tillman's assertion, in his speech of Monday, that the resolution in regard to the Oregon grants, introduced by him in the senate on January 31, 1928, had been prepared by the attorney general and that his "interest in the matter had been first aroused by a desire to purchase some of the timber land."

Mr. Bonaparte also replies to Senator Tillman's remark, made in the senate last February, that he had not "bought any land anywhere in the west or undertaken to buy any."

Mr. Bonaparte's statement in part is as follows:

"Jan. 12, 1929.—There are two passages in the remarks of Senator Tillman, published in today's Congressional Record, which demand notice from me. He says (Record, p. 734):

"It might be well to inquire whether or not the attorney general has been ordered not to obey the law of congress passed last April—which I will call the 'Tillman-Bonaparte law'—ordering suit to be instituted for the recovery of these lands. My culpability is of such enormity and magnitude in contemplating the purchase of 1,440 acres of land at $2.50 an acre in the eyes of this stickler for official rectitude in others that it may be found that he is determined to block my so-called 'notorious transactions.'"

Suit Was Begun in September. "On September 4, 1928, suit was brought by the United States of America in the circuit court of the United

Attorney General Bonaparte.

States for the District of Oregon against the Oregon & California Railroad Company, the Southern Pacific Company, the Union Trust Company, individually and as trustees; Stephen T. Quigg, individually and as trustee, and a large number of individual defendants. The purpose of this suit is, in substance, to declare and enforce a forfeiture of the public lands claimed by the railroads under Mr. Harriman's control by virtue of the original grant to the Oregon & California railroad. It has been brought in accordance with the directions of the joint resolution to which Senator Tillman refers; was instituted as soon as practicable after the passage of said resolution, and the fact of its institution has been published and could have been verified by anyone, through inquiry at this department, for more than four months.

Didn't Tell His Interest. "Senator Tillman called upon me at the department of Justice a few days before the introduction by him of the resolution which I see, by the Record, he presented to the senate on January 31, 1928. Our interview occurred, therefore, a little less than three weeks before his letter of February 25 in which he requested them 'to hold in reserve' for him 'eight of the best quarter sections,' and probably a little more than three weeks before his statement in the senate in which he had 'bought any land anywhere in the west or undertaken to buy any.' He told me he wished information as to the status of the lands embraced in those Oregon grants because he had heard so much complaint about the conduct of the corporations claiming them during his recent journey through the states of the Pacific slope.

"He never told me a word of any connection on his part with an arrangement to acquire some part of those lands, nor that he intended, expected or even desired, at that time, to make any such purchase. As stated by him his reason for making those inquiries was that he might, better discharge his public duties; and I was totally ignorant until I saw the documents transmitted by the president to Senator Hale that Senator Tillman, at the time of his conversation with me, had any private interest, whether actual or in expectation, in connection with the subject of our conversation."

Make Allowances.

FORTY YEARS AGO

Janesville Daily Gazette, January 13, 1890.—Friday Night at the Rink. —A grand Masquerade will come off at the rink on Friday evening of this week. Judging from the past, we are justified in saying that this will be an occasion of great interest. Those masquerades are now in the locality, and are first-class entertainments, and are peculiarly interesting, especially to young people.

Runaway.—A team of horses attached to an empty wood sled ran away on Milwaukee avenue, last evening, spilling the driver, in a gutter, smashing a picket fence, and finally bringing up against the side of a brick house. The horses and driver were unhurt, but the vehicle will require the services of a surgeon in the sled business.

Wisconsin Legislature.—Madison, Jan. 13.—On motion, Mr. Pound of Janesville was unanimously nominated for Speaker. He was elected today, over Maxon, of Washington Co. and now occupies the chair. The Senate was called to order at 12 o'clock by its President, Lieutenant Governor Spooner.

W. G. LEE AT RIGHT, NEW GRAND MASTER OF THE BROTHERHOOD OF RAILWAY TRAINMEN, AND P. H. MORRISSEY, WHO RESIGNED ON NEW YEAR'S DAY, AT LEFT.

For 13 years P. H. Morrissey, as grand master of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen has been a big factor in all railway labor disputes and in all equitable decisions have made him famous. On New Year's day he resigned to become the first president of the new American Railroad Employees' and Investors' association, a national organization which is an offshoot of the Brotherhood. Mr. Morrissey is succeeded by W. G. Lee, the present vice grand master.

Morrissey during his administration, built up the Brotherhood from a struggling membership of 12,000 to 102,000 and has earned the reputation of being one of the most broad-minded labor leaders in the country.

The new American Railroad Employees' and Investors' association is said to have the backing of half a dozen of the largest railroad corporations of the country. Morrissey's salary is said to be $15,000 a year.

"The new organization is not to be used for political purpose," Morrissey says. "It is not to take part in controversies between railroad officials and employees, either."

"It is to provide for more active cooperation between employees and investors. Their interests are the same. Some of its objects are: To encourage friendly public feeling toward the railroads; to keep watch of railroad legislation; and to secure fair returns to capital and labor."

"Investors and employees are to have equal voice. There is need of cooperation between them. They may quarrel as to the relative portions of the earnings due them. But they cannot quarrel in their resistance to the unjust reducing of rates and other limitations which in the end hurt employees more than investors. "Hit the railroads and hurt the rich is the cry. And every time the railroads are hit, 1,500,000 railroad employees are hit."

W. G. Lee, for years vice grand master of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, who has succeeded P. H. Morrissey as grand master, has come up from the bottom. He was a brakeman 30 years ago.

Lee began his railroad career on the Atchafalaya, Topoka & Santa Fe at Emporia, Kan., in 1879. He was a brakeman and switchman on various roads in the southwest until 1891, when he became a freight conductor on the Union Pacific. In 1905 he was elected vice grand master of the trainmen at the Galveston convention of the order, of which he had been a member since 1890.

The new grand master has almost as great a reputation as a union leader as Morrissey.

The Wonderful Results FROM GAZETTE ADVERTISING

Just last week, one little ad 2 columns wide, 2 1/2 inches deep, inserted five times in The Gazette made 100 sales and had calls for another 100 sales. The man realized an increase in his business of 200 per cent and if he could have filled the other 100 calls it would have been 500 per cent increase.

This was a special sale, but there was a bona-fide offer made and the people were quick to take advantage of the offer. We will give any merchant the exact particulars if he will inquire about it.

Another merchant doubled his business during December over December of last year. Another merchant walked into a drug store and bought a package of Cascarets. After buying them he asked himself this question, "Why did I buy these Cascarets?" He had not used them for two years. He pondered over the matter for a while and then remembered having read an ad two days before. He told the writer that he had been influenced unconsciously by the ad, and that at the time of reading the ad he had no idea of purchasing.

If you will use 100 inches of display advertising in one year, the rate, per inch is 20c. 300 inches cost 18c per inch. 500 inches cost 15c per inch. 1000 inches cost 12 1/2c per inch. The merchant who has a good article for sale, or a good proposition to offer to the public, and fails to use space in the Gazette, misses each day the best opportunity for increase in business in this community. No other medium will reach as many people, as quickly, at as little cost as the Gazette.

If you have a proposition that appeals to a majority of the citizens, or to even one in every 50 citizens, there is no medium for your advertising as profitable as the Gazette. Each ad you insert should create a good impression of the article advertised, and a good impression of your store naturally follows. If you will create a good impression twice or three or four or six times a week, and do it continuously, it matters not whether immediate purchases are made, the good impression will get you business when things in your line are needed, for it will be readily seen that a man or lady will purchase the goods that they think best of, and will patronize the store that makes the best impressions.

Some time ago, one insertion of a 10 inch ad made 200 sales and had calls for another 100. Recently three 6 inch ads made 1500 sales. Last spring one merchant showed 500 per cent increase from about $40.00 of advertising, which meant a net profit of about $400.00. Want ads have been known to bring 150 replies from 3 insertions. One man sold $2,800.00 worth of merchandise from one insertion in the Daily and one insertion in the Semi-Weekly Gazette, costing $30.00. Instances of this kind show up every day.

TURN ABOUT FAIR PLAY

The Wall Street Journal suggests that: "In view of the fact that President Roosevelt and congress are now engaged in much-raking each other, and filling the newspapers with all manner of wild accusations, would it not be in order for some representative body of capitalists, insurance presidents and railway men to appoint a committee to investigate our political system and its methods? Is it not timely to probe the probers?"

This is all right as far as it goes, but the real trouble appears to be that the affiliations with the members of congress and the money centers have been the cause of all the trouble thus far. The plan for the Captains of Industry to control legislation and the plan of the congressmen to avail themselves of opportunities has been the primary trouble in the whole affair.

READY FOR BUSINESS

The Wisconsin state legislature convened this noon in the capitol at Madison. It started out on the winter's work by a harmonious session last night at which the officers for the coming session were named and the work of the session planned. There is nothing like having harmony to start with and then the rest of it all comes easily. It is to be hoped that the coming session will not be marked by discord and that factionalism will be lost sight of. Discord has too long split amouder the ranks of the G. O. P. in Wisconsin and it is time to get together and work in harmony. No house divided against itself can last, and the stronger element always dominates and leaves the weaker side with a grievance. Now that the preliminary business has been decided upon get down to business and show how much can be accomplished.

MAKING FOR FAIR DEALING

The supreme court having put the brand of illegality on the railroad practice of giving Kansas City packers a rebate, under cover of an allowance for the use of tracks on the shipper's property, it would seem that another scheme for favoring big customers must soon be abandoned.

"YOU'RE ANOTHER"

"What possible good can come to the American people by prolonging the unrelenting world-battle between the President and congress? Was ever any problem solved—was ever any wrong righted, by angry talking?" says an Exchange. It is a true statement but still it relieves the monotony of not having a revolution or a civil war or trouble with foreign nations and is a quiet way for the average congressman to blow off his steam before getting down to real hard work of saving the country and incidentally laying up some of the world's goodness for himself for rainy days in the future.

Before they finish with President.

Roosevelt some of those congressmen are liable to have a distinct reminiscence that he can wield the big stick. In the good, old days when Donnybrook Fair was in its heyday there used to be a game where the lads threw their old castors into the ring and crossed back sticks with some local champion for a new hat and a half crown to buy their best girl a ribbon or so at the fairing. They usually went down in defeat much the same as the congressmen are doing when they cross sticks with our strenuous president.

Affairs are looking up politically at Madison. The caucuses have really been held, the die has been cast and now the legislature is ready to get down to business by working from Monday night until Thursday and then adjourning until the following Monday. Anyone who thinks those members of the legislature do not earn their salary should go up to Madison and watch the gyrations most of them make trying to be embryo statesmen.

It was not necessary for Roosevelt to answer Tillman's attack. The records in the hands of members of his cabinet show that the South Carolina firebrand did not have a legal leg to stand on when he tried to explain his attitude to the Senators.

France has gone back to the guillotine as a method of putting proper punctuation marks upon the sentences of crime that have been rampant since the "death-dealing" invention of the Doctor during the Reign of Terror was allowed to rust in disuse. It makes a fine period for the criminals to end their sentences with.

It would appear that the state capitol at Madison is not going to be large enough even for the present legislature, let alone the increasing generations of office-holders, and steps are now to be taken to have the other wing made larger to accommodate the state senators in their sessions.

Denon still has his hands full trying to induce the Illinois republicans to fight the good fight out to the finish and not become affiliated with the naughty bad democrats. There is reason in his plans as perhaps the recreant republicans and bad democrats may count someone else in as Governor if he does not look out.

The right of Harry Thaw, convicted of shooting Stanford White in a New York roof garden, to go before a court and demonstrate his sanity has been granted by a New York jurist. Once more the sordid tale of his wife's life will be brought to public notice and the curious public will again have their fill of the sensational.

Taft's grocery bill this winter should be exceptionally light with the bananas, plums and barbeques he is being invited to attend while in the sunny land of cotton and sandy bottoms.

Heart to Heart Talks.

FOOLISH BOYS.

Young man, guard your credit. However much money you may have or how little, credit must be the foundation on which you are to build. Credit is your capital stock and your largest asset.

A dealer in agricultural implements in Iowa tells the writer these facts: Young farmers under twenty-one years of age, the sons of wealthy farmers, will sometimes buy heavily on the strength of their prospects. Then, before they arrive at maturity, they will take the benefit of the bankruptcy law.

And—Having wiped the slate clear of their indebtedness, they come into possession of their share of the estate. And to accomplish this they will run the risk of a penitentiary sentence.

Furthermore, it was remarked that the young fellows who are guilty of these mean maneuvers to beat their creditors regard this procedure as "smart."

Forsooth! They have gained perhaps a few hundred dollars' worth of stuff. But they have lost the best asset of their business life—credit. And also the best asset of their personality—character.

Put the equation this way: WOE—a few paltry dollars. LOST—character and credit. On the lowest plane—that of credit—the gains of the dishonest dealing are not a little of the losses, because there will come a time in the business history of these young men when the extension of favors might amount to many times the sum gained by the honesty of early life.

Business men know nowadays very well the commercial record of those with whom they deal. And the community does not forget. Half a lifetime of uprightness will not blot out the shameful record of boyish crookedness.

Young man, if you have been tempted at any time to stoop to abject meanness in order, as you think, to get on in the world—beware!

You are in the way of becoming a modern Esau—selling your birthright of honor and self respect for a morsel of pottage.

To say nothing of morals, to put on a purely selfish footing, IT PAYS TO BE DECENT.

Washington.—Oscar Straus of the department of commerce and labor has come forward with another proposition quite as much of an innovation as many others which he has inaugurated and carried to success. The latest idea is to have a national free employment bureau open to every one from coast to coast. He has taken the matter up with Thomas Lewis, Donnelly of the government printing office; Elbert H. Gary of steel frames; and others and all are carefully and systematically investigating the proposition. It is entirely practical, in talking with him today he designated it as one of the most important subjects before the people. At home at the foot of the unnecessary unemployed, he deals with the men who want to work and who are out of jobs in various localities; while other localities, perhaps thousands of miles away, desire just such men. Continuing, he said: "Take for example the case of the

Mrs. Wad Morris, who created the greatest sensation of the night-rider trial in Union City, Tenn., when she confessed she had deceived the court in attempting to prove an alibi for her husband.

Union City, Tenn., Jan. 11.—The night-rider case of this city is one of the most unique cases in the annals of Tennessee. The defense has endeavored to build up an alibi for each of the 10 men indicted and everything was working smoothly until Mrs. Wad Morris, after a forenoon on the stand, in which she thoroughly established the alibi of her husband, Wad Morris, suddenly realized the awfulness of the crime she was herself committing in telling what was not true. Mrs. Morris deserves no blame for this, for she was undoubtedly influenced, as any one would be to believe that her husband's safety lay in her attempt to prove an alibi. After realizing the position she had so successfully taken during the morning and with tears in her eyes she went to the prosecuting attorney and confessed the whole

DENTAL CHAT

Have you in rambling in the woods ever stopped upon a fallen tree and had it caved in with you because its heart was eaten out with decay? It was hollow.

Just so will it be with your teeth if you neglect them.

My patients are continually saying to me:

"My teeth decay so rapidly."

"Why, it was only last week that I first noticed any trouble with them."

The truth was:

"This decay had been going on for years until the tooth was hollow and a wreck inside its enamel shell."

Had a dentist been consulted regularly twice each year the trouble would have been discovered and remedied before damage was so great.

"Good teeth lengthen life."

"Loss of teeth shorten life."

TROUBLE STARTS
AT THE OPENING

QUESTION OF BANKS CHARGING EXCHANGE DISCUSSED.

ARGUMENTS PRO AND CON

Heated Discussion of the Subject
Engaged in—Other News of the County Fathers.

This morning's session of the county board opened as gently as a Thursday night prayer meeting but within a half hour was as exciting as a peace conference between two warring countries.

It all came about through an apparently insignificant resolution introduced by Supervisor Cannon authorizing the county clerk to stamp all orders for money on the county with the clause:

"Payable at the Second National Bank, at Beloit State Bank, Beloit, Wis., without charge for exchange."

It was enough to stir the sleeping members of the board to activity and the result was the same as though a dynamite bomb had been exploded in their midst.

The resolution was brought in at the request of County Clerk Lee, because it would have the county paying exchange for orders cashed outside of Beloit. With this explanation the Beloit banks would charge no exchange for cashing orders sent in from other banks.

M. P. Richardson, supervisor from the second ward of Janesville, was the first to rise with a question and that started the fun.

He wanted to know where the exchange would be paid if that were done. Would it come out of the individual's pocket; would the Beloit at which it was cashed pay the bank which has the county's money on deposit be the loser?

Mr. Cannon's reply was that if the Janesville bank wished to charge exchange of their patrons that the one to whom the order was payable would be the one who would pay the exchange.

"But would that not be misleading," said Sup. Woodruff.

"No, it is the plain statement that these orders are payable without exchange in the banks in Beloit or by the City Treasurer without any charge for exchange."

The question as to the amount of money which the treasurer could pay on these orders caused Mr. Cannon to state that small sums could be paid; he did not know just what the maximum amount was.

The treasurer was asked as to this, his reply being that the statutes said that he could not keep over $2000 in the vaults and that the board would have to determine as to whether that amount could be held there.

Sup. Livermore of Beloit explained why this was made necessary. The orders will probably be cashed in towns outside of both Janesville and Beloit and this serves a notice on the outside banks that they can be cashed without cost to themselves.

Mr. Richardson, in defense of the Janesville banks, of whom Mr. Cannon said that had they made their bids one mill lower he would have voted to give it to them, said that they were not doing business for their health, and that they would charge exchange because it was necessary.

He thought that if the $3000 dollars should be kept in the treasurer's vaults and burglar insurance put on it, that the Beloit banks should pay for it. As the discussion was so what warm and it was already past the noon hour it was moved to adjourn at this time.

Among the other resolutions brought up this morning, was one to raise the salary of the new superintendent of the asylum and county farm to $900 to begin with.

The questions as to how far the jurisdiction of the Board of Trustees extended and whether a successor to Mr. Killam could be appointed before his resignation had been accepted, were brought up and discussed.

It was decided that the jurisdiction of the trustees is only to appoint. The other topic was not settled upon as it was moved to lay the matter over until tomorrow at eleven o'clock.

A resolution was introduced by F. J. Livermore of Beloit to have the boundaries of the three sections of the county under the supervision of the three postmasters, be restored.

One half of the towns in the second section were recently changed and Mr. Livermore said that it was necessary to do this in order that the new postmaster would get his rightful pay for the work done. The resolution was passed unanimously.

An invitation was extended to the members of the board and their friends to attend the memorial exercises at the opera house on Lincoln's birthday.

The bill of Dr. E. W. Fairman for surgical services and attendance on Harry Bates of Footville, who lost an arm in a corn shredder at Spring Valley, was referred to committee No. 10, and as Mr. Tuller suggested that it be attended to at once, it was brought before the board for consideration.

The residence of Bates was to be settled as his mother lives in Broadhead and it was not known whether he was twenty-one years of age.

It was shown by Dr. Fairman that he was twenty-one years old and that he lived in Footville, but the bill was not allowed, but referred back to Fairman for itemizing.

A bill from G. C. Roberts for $8.85 for auction house, used on the sprinkler tank at the road-making in the town of Center was allowed by the board, only five contrary votes being cast. The bill included express charges of thirty-five cents.

On the county clerk's petition resolutions were offered and adopted allowing him to destroy all bills older than six years which were clogging the vault in his office and the building committee was authorized to make changes in the shelving of one of the cabinets to give more room for his bills.

A request was made that when any petitions were presented for the clerk to issue orders for $25, which is allowed for indigent sailors who would not have a decent burial, was made that when presenting these petitions to be sure and examine into the finances before petitioning, as several who asked for the money were able to pay for a funeral.

Trusted Langworthy of the poor farm suggested yesterday afternoon that he suggested to him that an addition be built to the structure on account of a lack of space. The committee on the Judge Ross salary matter was appointed and is composed of Sups. Livermore, of Beloit; Smith, of Evansville; and Miller, of Rock.

A petition filed by Atty. Cunningham for Olaus Knudson was read before the board and referred to committee No. 10. The committee is about to go out of existence, but the matter may be referred to the board without recommendation. The claimant is a poor man with a family consisting of his wife and six children.

The burning of his barn on the night of Sept. 25, 1908, by a county inmate named Hagaman, whom Knudson declares should not have been permitted to roam around at large, reduced the claimant to straitened circumstances, the barn not being insured and it being worth, with contents therein, the sum of $475.75.

Horses to the value of $400 were burned alive and fifty tons of hay valued at $600 went up in flames.

Another petition, which was filed with Notary Public Mr. P. Richardson on January 7 of this year, makes a claim for $10.00.

It is a claim for $10.00, North Bluff street, being the claimant. It seems that Harriage, on July 6th, last, was requested by Deputy Sheriff Horatio Nelson, to furnish his gasoline launch to be used to recover the body of John Hurlingham, who was drowned opposite Kennedy's farm about seven miles north of Janesville. This launch was used from morning until night on the 6th and on the 7th of July, and also a rope which was the property of Harriage, and was used in the dredging process.

The disagreement over the stamp order resolution was continued this afternoon. Supervisor Richardson arose and saying that as he had conferred with several of the bankers in Janesville and had been told that no exchange would be charged on county orders he could not see the use of stamping orders with this stamp and that if so done the banks might consider the order then as a check.

Mr. Cannon arose and asked if they did not demand exchange on Mr. Killam's order. Mr. Bear answered by saying that the banks will cash all orders, but not checks, and that it was a check which Mr. Killam had.

The treasurer was called upon and it was discovered that it was a check through the Rock County Bank from the trustees on County Treasurer Royal Smith. The check was drawn on Beloit bank.

The question arose as to whether other people were charged exchange for checks on the Beloit banks, and the answer was made that they thought not, but that with a county check there was considerable book-keeping to be done in sending drafts and so forth. Seven-eighths of the county's banking business, Mr. Richardson stated, was done in Janesville.

Mr. Livermore: "Is it not true that the banks of Janesville have offered us an agreement in writing that so far as the county is concerned they would not take checks on the Beloit banks?"

Mr. Tuller: "They did serve notice on the county treasurer that they Continued on page 6" would not cash checks or orders on Hollett banks without exchange." The question was put to Supervisor Livermore, if he did not say that he would guarantee that there would be no charge for exchange on the Hollett banks.

Mr. Moore arose and said that that statement was given out and it was based largely on the prior practices of the banks of transferring money without exchange.

Mr. Livermore said: "I don't remember, but I suppose it is as was stated, but I am here to assure you that it will not cost Rock County and the board a cent for exchange. I will back my statement to the letter."

Mr. Moore moved that the resolution be made to read that the stamp be used at the discretion of the stamp. The amendment was lost, but the original resolution was put to the board and adopted.

Mr. Livermore introduced a resolution that the Clerk be instructed to cast a unanimous vote for Dr. M. H. Harkness as superintendent of the poorhouse. On the vote the clerk was so instructed.

A resolution that the special committee in charge of the appropriations of the deputies of the county superintendent be made a special order to have them report Friday morning at 10:30, was passed.

Sup. Tullar, of Evansville, moved that the bill of Dr. Fairman for amputation and medical attendance on Harry Bates, be referred to Sup. Seeger, of the southern district and that he be authorized to pay the same. The motion was carried.

A resolution of the register, the twenty-fifth annual report of Poormaster S. B. Kuylen, and the list of people to whom he had given assistance, Sup. of Poor George Seeger, of the county clerk's report were read this afternoon and accepted.

Late this afternoon the county board passed a motion for a legislative committee to be composed of the chairman and two members whom he shall appoint.

This committee will go to Madison to watch all matters of interest to Rock county, particularly the highway law and the Hollett municipal court legislation.

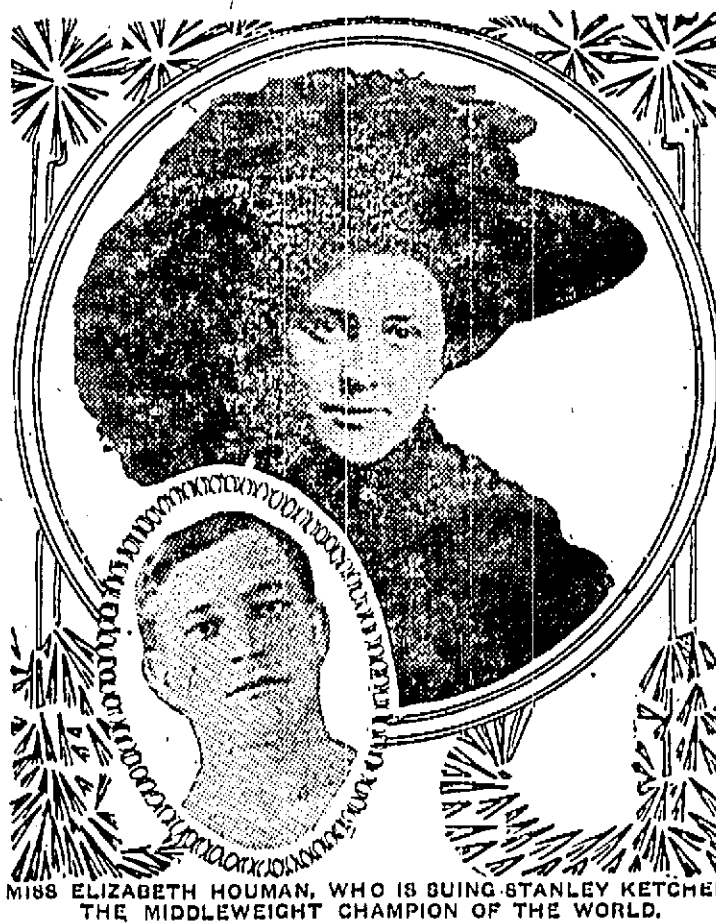

The committee is to serve without pay, beyond expenses. It is the first one of its kind ever appointed in this or any other county and is an innovation in legislative lobbying.

Indicted for Soliciting Bribes.
Ashtabula, O., Jan. 13.—City Councilman George Aunger, representing the Third ward, the oldest member and president pro tem of the city council, was indicted on two counts by the grand jury at Jefferson, this county, yesterday, for alleged solicitation of a bribe of $1,200 October 1, 1908, in connection with an ordinance for the extension of the franchise of the Ashtabula Gas Company recently before the council.

KOEBELIN'S

MISS ELIZABETH HOUMAN, WHO IS BEATING STANLEY KETCHEL, THE MIDDLEWEIGHT CHAMPION OF THE WORLD.

The champion middleweight prizefighter is in trouble. Miss Elizabeth Houman of 30 Humboldt street, Grand Rapids, Mich., is beating Stanley Ketchel for damages to the amount of $10,000. Ketchel was arrested on a capias as the commencement of the suit. He readily secured bail to the amount of $10,000 and was released.

In her affidavit Miss Houman charges she met Stanley Ketchel in Grand Rapids on January 5, 1908, and that the acquaintance soon ripened into a love affair and an engagement resulted. She charges that he promised to marry her January 20 of last year, but later postponed the ceremony until July. On the day set for the wedding Miss Houman charges he left for the west and that while he was there she received letters from him and kept up a correspondence. On June 9 she said she went to Milwaukee at the solicitation of the fighter and remained there with him two days. Then she declares in July, after he had risen to the pinnacle of fame as the champion of the world, he broke off the engagement without warning and has since refused to associate with her.

Miss Houman states that during the time of her alleged engagement she became and was in a delicate condition, which was brought on by her reliance on the alleged promise of Ketchel to marry her. She states that she fully believed in him and had asked for and gained the consent of her parents to her wedding with the fighter, and that his sudden change of mind has damaged her to the extent of the amount asked for.

When seen by a staff reporter last night, Ketchel said:

"The whole scheme is one of black-mail pure and simple. I met a woman but that is all. I do not know her, have had no acquaintance with her, and never became intimate with her in any way. There was no promise or talk of matrimony."

One's Whole Duty.
I am glad to think I am not bound to make the world go right; but only to discover and to do with cheerful heart the work that God appoints.—Jean Ingelow.

AT THE PLAY HOUSES.

"The Man From Home." Sometimes facts and figures make a greater impression upon the public mind than any amount of argument, and so perhaps it is in a theatrical sense when dealing with the qualities of a play. Since the days of Shakspeare there have been varying degrees of plays and players, and when all is said, it still remains an undisputed truism that "the play's the thing," quite irrespective of actors and scenery. Possibly the enormous success of the new drama, "The Man From Home," written by Booth Tarkington and Harry Leon Wilson, and which will be seen at the Myers Theatre Friday evening, Jan. 15, is due in no small measure to the inherent appeal of the play itself, for while it is undoubtedly a fact that the excellent actors engaged by the management have in no small degree contributed to its popularity, it requires something more than talent from a thespian standpoint to bring success out of spoken lines. Be that as it may, the fact remains, and it is a well attested fact, at the conclusion that playwriting must be a highly remunerative pastime—occasionally. As far as the initial cost of the production is concerned, it has been set at $22,000, and it is questionable whether any other form of investment will yield such a return as that—approximately 700 per cent. The authors themselves have reaped a pretty penny—in fact it figures at close to $1.50 a word for their work, and this makes some of the big sums paid by magazines look puny in comparison. Playwriting is a fine thing, when you strike a success.

THE AMERICAN GIRL IN "THE MAN FROM HOME"

GOLD MEDAL FLOUR

HIGHEST QUALITY

$100,000,000 Wasted On Ads That Never Pay

We estimate that every year is wasted $100,000,000 on ads that should never run.

That $125,000,000 is being spent annually to accomplish what $25,000,000 should do.

If such ads were put to comparative test, they would all be discarded. And each would teach a lesson which one never could forget.

That is why we pay such remarkable salaries to members of our Copy Staff. One of these writers receives $1,000 per week.

Yet we have known these men to make, in one month, for one client, more than all of the writers make in a year.

The Many-Man Power

We employ on our Copy Staff the ablest men we know. We have picked them out, in the course of years, by the brilliant results we have seen them accomplish.

No one else pays for such talent what we pay. So we attract here the very best in the field.

Then, in this vortex of advertising—this school of a myriad experiences—these men multiply their powers.

Yet we never permit any one of these men to work out a campaign alone. There is too much at stake.

One man can't know all the pitfalls. One man has limited knowledge, limited ideas and experience. And no one man can average human nature.

Our Advisory Boards

So these men meet in Advisory Boards to work out the campaigns we take up.

Our two Boards—in New York and Chicago—consist of twenty-eight men. Each has a record of unusual success. Each is a master of advertising.

And all of them are learning, all the time, from scores of new undertakings.

This body of men forms the ablest advertising corps ever brought into existence.

One duty of these Boards is to pass judgment on advertising problems submitted. They are glad to consider, without charge or obligation, any question you desire to submit.

They will tell you what is possible and what is impossible so far as men can know.

Why We Succeed

Then these men in conference work out the campaigns of our clients. Methods, plans and copy—all the problems of selling and advertising—are all decided here.

Each brings to bear a wealth of experience. Each one contributes ideas. And they do not finish until the campaign appears to be irresistible.

That is why we succeed. That is why we have grown, through the growth of our clients, to our present enormous proportions.

Thus we make one dollar, often, do the work of ten. Thus we develop, for every client, all of his possibilities.

Back of these men we employ more than 200 people, each one of them skilled in some department of advertising.

No Extra Charge

This incomparable service costs the price of the commonplace. We handle advertising on the usual agent's commission.

We multiply results to multiply advertising. We create successes because successes expand. And our revenue comes through expansion.

We spend on copy what other great agencies spend on soliciting, and we consider it better spent.

Before we had Advisory Boards, too many campaigns failed to bring back their cost. Other agents have the same experience still.

Now our failures are so rare, and our successes so great, that our business has multiplied many times over.

So we need to charge nothing extra. We can better afford to keep accounts than to kill them.

The service which pays our clients best is the service that best pays us.

We have written a book about this New Way—a book that tells what it has done. Every man who spends a dollar in advertising owes to himself its perusal. The book itself is a brilliant example of our advertising powers. Please send this coupon for it.

A Reminder

To Send to Lord & Thomas, New York or Chicago, for their book, "The New Way in Advertising."

TWILIGHT CLUB; "OUR FOREIGN RELATIONS"

But after being labored with, I finally complied, having in mind the anecdote of the darky who announced to a friend that he had "done good" by joining the church, and his friend, who was prompted to ask:

"What church?" his friend was prompted to ask.

"Nawah, ah done joined de Baptist church, ah did."

"Well, Moses, you didn't join the church then. You joined the navy."

"So you see I have almost an inkling of why I, being a Baptist clergyman, should be solicited to speak upon this subject. To begin with, then, the United States has 27 first-class battleships, 8 armored cruisers, 6 first-class cruisers, 7 second-class cruisers and 16 destroyers. Yesterday I read an Associated Press dispatch in the Gazette to the effect that twenty-nine millions is to be expended for vessels.

"There are those who say that the navy is constructed for the sole purpose of destroying human life and is maintained at tremendous cost of thought, skill, energy and money. If that were true, it is a member of the clergy, would not be here tonight to hold a brief for the organization and maintenance of such an institution.

"But would our dignified understanding, would they be the same in foreign parts as they are here? If we had no navy? And when it comes to putting down insubordination, we find that our maritime vessels are certainly not ineffectual.

"Why, at the present time, we hardly dare withdraw from our possessions in the Pacific. We must bring our influence for good to bear upon the inhabitants of those colonies, and bring them up to a level where they can themselves maintain peace.

"In Jamesville, in order to promote virtue, we have a police force. A navy is a police patrol of oceans. And it is necessary to continue it upon the same scale it is based on now.

"The Rev. H. C. Denison of Congregational church spoke as follows:

"The topic for our relations with the Orient I begin with San Francisco Bay. The harbor there is splendid. It suggests that it is greatly to our interest to achieve prestige among the nations that lie to the west, across the Pacific. Let us not keep within our own borders when we have good influence to lend to both South America and the Orient.

"I am inclined to think we have not gone too far in our intercourse with the yellow race, despite the alarms that have of late been making the well-known ring. We already fill a place in the economy of those strange empire and, being there, we have but one role to play: our civilization, traditions, religion make it possible for us to sustain a policy only which makes towards justice and progress.

"I have travelled the regions, and recently. The customary manner in which Americans, tour in foreign lands is evocative of an anecdote of one who was speeding by rail through Belgium.

"Where are we now?" he queried of a fellow-passenger.

"Ten miles from Brussels," was the reply.

"Oh, never mind the blamed details," remonstrated the American, impatiently. "What country are we in?"

"That's the way Americans travel. But to return to the subject of the Japanese, let it be known that this little brown man of Nippon is a vile and vicious but energetic and determined people.

"We are not dealing with a race of workahorses—save in the ethical sense of the word. What are we going to make out of our nation? It is the dominant problem to the Jap, overriding all spiritual considerations, although being the goal.

"The Jap religion is simply one of national interests. It makes no ethical demands—it involves no spiritual aspirations.

"It seems scarcely creditable that the Japanese were able to push up to only a few decades ago. They have but just emerged from animalism and semi-barbarism.

"They have now completed in their country 5,000 miles of railroad and government plans exist that contemplate 5,000 miles more.

"The higher schools are all overcrowded. The shipping is increasing by leaps and bounds. The C. M. & St. P. Railway of America has already contracted to make connections at Seattle with lately built Jap steamships. A short time ago, ships of 6,000 tons each were constructed for passage to Vladivostok and other ports.

"Some of the cities are wildernesses of smokestacks, not at all like traditional Japanese cities. These wildernesses of smokestacks are of course borrowed in idea from our civilization. But all this new life in Japan is undigested as yet. It strikes one as artificial.

"The Japanese are not a free people. They have almost nothing to do with the government of their land. The electorate there is limited. And the corruption that breeds in their cities would bring blush of shame to Pittsburgh, St. Louis or Philadelphia.

"In the national legislative scheme, it is possible to transfer votes from the upper to the lower house in order to give the government a majority over the community. A Jap is part Malay in his blood. This strain brings insincerity to his makeup and he will use unfair means to get the better of his competitors.

"Prof. Laughlin of Yale recently interviewed Marquis Ito on the Japanese administration in Korea, but he was shown by Ito only what he wanted to see—not what he didn't want to see.

"By adroit means, the nation is establishing our Manchurian trade—it subsidizes Jap merchants in Manchuria in order to undersell American goods. The merchants surreptitiously imitate German, English and American labels on goods, and an American would not be crafty enough to detect these frauds.

"So the moral development of the race has not kept pace with the commercial expansion. There is a mind here to be rich. It is even more the ruling passion there than it is in America.

"Wild-cat companies flourish. They pay exorbitant dividends to their little brown stockholders. The usual dividend is 15 per cent, which is suicidal policy.

"There is an old aristocratic clan in Japan called Satsuma. That is, it used to be aristocratic, but the prestige it had has shifted to the wealthy classes of the empire.

"These rich men are veiled with oily and diplomatic manners and maneuvers. Smiling and bowing, the character of a Jap counts for nothing. Some students of life in that country say that the inhabitants are peacefully inclined.

"But history doesn't indicate so, nor does the present attitude of the nation indicate so. Armies are being replenished, ports being fortified, and the little brown men, the most naturally suspicious of all races in the world, are discovering covert military secrets. But the nation is poor—so it does not really wish to have a war.

"Five older men of the realm constitute what is to all practical purposes an oligarchy—among these is Marquis Ito. For the realm is not a monarchy, as is popularly supposed. These oligarchs belong to the Satsuma. They are far-seeing statesmen and engineered the war with Russia. It is not in their economy to fight so much richer a country as the United States though.

"They may be self-assertive, but that is because they have acquired that dignity since the Russo conflict—that always makes anyone self-assertive. No, they don't want war.

"Passing on to China, I will summarize the conditions there. The striking contrast between the two empires that are always spoken of in the same breath is that China is impressively vast, Japan small, both in her people and her million. Japan is replete with grace and artistry.

"China is big with the primitive and the creek of great cart-wheels. In the very center of Peking is an impassable road and it all strikes one as a helpless, incoherent, incongruous land. Observe the streets of the teeming cities where men, women and children are thronged and packed.

"In the people themselves, one has a notion of the wonderful capabilities—that is, if he knows them thoroughly. If he knows little of China, he flatters himself that the Occident comprises all the keen intellectuality of the earth and he renders many judgments on their dull, half-open eyes.

"But if ever the Chinese come to wish for the luxuries of the Occident, a mighty world-problem indeed will eventuate.

"The signs of the times indicate an awakening of John Chinaman. He has perhaps been too theoretical through all these many years—but now, according to a placid school-boy I met, the one thing the great awakening nation realizes that it needs is facts—facts.

"There are three or four items which embody the relations of America with the Orient. Remember, we are there, and there to stay. We are bound to stay there. And we are bound to be a credit to our ideals.

"Let it be our part to see that the Japanese do not overrun China. Always the Japs take everything they can get. And they should be held rigorously to their treaty rights in Manchuria. That was the policy of John Hay.

"It is likely that America will ever again regain the carrier trade of the Pacific? No, not from Japan. Of course, we should not feel they are coming in when they exploit territory which we are too lazy to cover. Our commerce will be what we make it.

"And now a few words with regard to California. Travelling through the Orient, I came to an Oriental who said to me: 'If you did not come from California, I will be courteous to you.'

"So there's a problem for Uncle Sam. And so far he has not handled it in a manner that is dignified, fair, nor statesmanlike. We ought to feel it our bounden duty to lend a guiding hand to a nation that is poorer in things of the spirit than we. And then some day we shall know additional mysteries of life through the profound medium of the Oriental mind, to which indeed there is a wonderful depth. Let us maintain friendly relations that will make these philosophical contributions possible.

"I met casually some of the sweetest and noblest of Chinamen. They think deeply and they think broadly. They are facing the light. Some are fairly pathetic in their aspirations. If only a type of man could be created to understand both the Occidental and the Oriental! A type of man to ever take the clear, far-seeing statesmanlike view.

"Too often on the streets of American cities one hears the Anglo-Saxon youngster taunting some Italian lad, indicating, not the Italian's inferiority, but the American's limitation of intellect.

"Could those whose mouths stir in loor and floor be transported to the sunny climes from which the Italian emigrated—witness the resplendent background of sky, color and hill—give ear to the songs of husbandry in the fields—then would his heart be touched and he would become aware that there is something HUMAN in the composition of the Southern Italian.

"Upon the conclusion of the Rev. Mr. Denison's address, comment was overheard among the banqueters to the effect that the remarks about the Chinese constituted the most beautiful tribute that had been paid them since the days of James O. Hinkle.

Judge Fifield spoke briefly directly prior to the adjournment of the meeting.

"There's a Reason."

There is a human interest side to the appointment of Mr. Herrick which is especially significant. Back in the many days of "Blond" Cox of Cincinnati, it will be remembered that Mr. Taft dealt Cox a death blow in a fiery attack at Akron. This attack resulted in the defeat of Mr. Herrick, who was then running for gubernatorial honors in Ohio. Mr. Taft admired Mr. Herrick, for they had been life-long friends and he had no thought of injuring Mr. Herrick when he assailed Cox.

This did not deter Mr. Herrick, however, from remaining loyal to Mr. Taft and in the work before the Chicago convention Mr. Herrick did all in his power to fight Foraker and win Taft delegates in Ohio. After the convention Mr. Herrick did European service for Mr. Taft throughout the campaign.

Before the campaign opened he went to Europe for a vacation and rest. While in London he attended a banquet given to the governor general of the Bank of England. Among other things the head of the English banking institution observed that if Mr. Taft should be elected president he thought they (the Bank of England) "would have to loosen up a bit and take the American railroad securities," but that if Mr. Bryan should be elected they "would have to wait a bit."

Mr. Herrick brought this story home and told it in every banking and financial center in the country, either by word or mouth or in letters. The Cleveland banker also raised a fund of $2,000 in Ohio for the campaign and had the pleasure of going down to New York and placing it in the hands of Frank Hitchcock.

The reward of this work and of Mr. Herrick's undoubted qualifications for the position are plainly seen in his appointment to the portfolio.

Means Brain on Women.

Every monthly magazine carries as many as two continued stories in it. When a man takes six, it means that his wife is carrying 12 continued stories in her head in addition to doing the cooking and trying to find out how much the new hat cost worn by the woman next door.—Oil City Derrick.

Unmannerly Haste.

Selfishness is ever on the increase. We elbow our way through the crowd, tread on each other's heels, and seldom or never apologize. We have no time to be polite.—Martin, Paris.

MYRON T. HERRICK OF OHIO.

When President-elect Taft announced tentatively that he might appoint Myron T. Herrick of Ohio to his official family in the position of secretary of the treasury, all a fine political leaders were surprised. Secretary Garfield of the treasury department has been doing yeoman work and it was figured by those closest to the Roosevelt administration that Garfield was due for a promotion and more than likely, he would get a berth in the treasury department.

It was, therefore, of interest that President-elect Taft was tentatively suggested the name of Myron T. Herrick for the cabinet, for it indicates, along with his other appointments, that he is going to break completely with the Roosevelt influence.

"I would suggest," said he, "that the budget expended on the navy be spent instead on the upbuilding of the merchant marine. In a foreign port once I was asked by a native: 'Where is your beautiful starry flag that I used to see coming into our harbors?' I seldom see it now."

FATHER OF 12 SAVES MONEY
Health Problem of Large Family Solved by Washington Man.

"I am the father of twelve children, the oldest about twenty years at present, and the youngest about two years," says J. W. Cheney of Washington, D. C., "so that you will see that where the children are subject to colds, coughs and such diseases, I have certainly had a large expense. You can tell everybody that I say Father John's Medicine is one of the best medicines to keep in the family in winter that ever was. I have tried it in all ways. My wife would not be without it at this season of the year. I have found Father John's Medicine the most valuable preparation for coughs and colds." (Signed) J. W. Cheney, 901 4th St., S. E. Wagner Fooled the Critics.

There is a story of Wagner's visit to London in 1855. After the first Philharmonic concert the critics reproached him for conducting a Beethoven symphony without the score. At the second concert, to satisfy his audience, Wagner had a "partition" on his desk, which he frequently consulted. The critics declared the improvement was marked. The score, however, was Rossini's "Barbier de Seville."

Drawing the Line.

"I don't mind listening to a man who is paying for my dinner tell me the story of his life," said the woman. "Men's lives are generally interesting, but I won't stand to hear a woman tell everything she knows, even if she does pay for my dinner. I'd rather pay for my own dinner and get an occasional whiff at the conversation."

Hidden in Vain.

A young lady who wears one of those big hats has endured all the gibes and jeers cast at her chapeau in dignified silence. The last straw, however, was the remark that a friend makes every time he meets her: "Come out from under that hat," he calls. "We all know you are there."—Boston Record.

60 Bonds Safe Beyond Question
These bonds are secured by First Mortgage on 30,000 Water House Power, Mills, Power Houses and other property, having a total valuation of over $5,000,000.

The bonds are payable serially, in accordance with our usual plan.

The bonds are issued at the very conservative rate of $100 per $1000 Power developed, exclusive of Mills and other assets, and are guaranteed by a strong corporation having a long and successful history, large assets and an established income.

A well located Water Power is a permanent income producing asset. This particular Water Power is one of the most efficient, economic and valuable to be found on the North American Continent.

We strongly recommend these bonds to conservative investors who want an assured income of six per cent for any period of time from five to twenty years, at their option.
